

SECTION A

ITEM ONE.

“We are fed up of these goons that always rob us whenever it comes dark. They are fond of being under influence of alcohol, marijuana and other drugs. The only solution for this problem is making them busy by fundraising for them as a community such that they can get opportunities for starting self-help income generating projects”. That was a speech from one of the residents of Kito village in Bweyogerere about the youths.

Task; Use your expertise to advise such youths on,

- a) sources of investment ideas.
- b) the process to undergo in starting their self-help income generating businesses.
- c) factors likely to influence the choice of location for their projects.

SECTION B

ITEM TWO.

Many entrepreneurs in Uganda operate their businesses on a small scale and this is attributed to insufficient funds for efficient operation and expansion of their businesses. They are also not satisfied with the government reluctance to provide the required services for their businesses yet they are always charged on different grounds.

Task; educate Ugandan entrepreneurs about,

- a) how they can raise funds for their businesses.
- b) how the government raises revenue and how it uses that revenue.

ITEM THREE

Ssebitosi having failed to finish up with studies due to lack of school fees having lost all his parents in a fatal accident on Masaka road decided to start a brick laying project on his inherited piece of land from where he has managed to raise Ugx 1,000,000 and wishes to open up a men’s saloon in Nyendo town.

He however lacks knowledge on how to properly plan for that money, different ways of saving his income and factors likely to influence his savings levels.

Task. As an aspiring Entrepreneur,

- a) What unique characteristics does Ssebitosi possess.
- b) Help him to overcome the challenges enlisted in the scenario.

ITEM FOUR.

Simon Odongpinyi is a young entrepreneur in Pece trading center Gulu city. He operates a chicken frying business alone now for two years and he faces some challenges while operating his business.

Task; use your expertise to;

- a) show the situations that characterize the business operated by Odongopinyi.
- b) the benefits and challenges of Simon operating the business alone.

END